

Consider Fires Due To Arson

Two Business Buildings, Church And Residence Burn at Laredo

TRENTON, Mo., Nov. 29.—(P)—Four fires described by officers as "definitely" incendiary today struck Laredo, eight miles east of here, and caused a general alert of the State Highway patrol throughout north central Missouri where nine such outbreaks already are under investigation.

The fires, the first of which was discovered about 2:45 a. m., destroyed the R. W. Moren grocery store and the Oliver Davis cafe next door, the Christian church and an empty dwelling. Owners of the buildings and members of the church congregation estimated the total loss at about $75,000.

Among the first of the state highway patrolmen to converge on the Grundy county town of about 600 persons was Sgt. R. E. L. Walker.

"This is definitely arson," he said, after an investigation.

The grocery store fire, residents told officers, apparently broke out first in a store room of the grocery store. A short time later the vacant house was aflame. It is about a block from the grocery and the cafe. This fire, apparently started on the back porch, roared out of control and spread to the nearby church.

Search by Plane
At Jefferson City, Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the state patrol, ordered the police airplane into the search for possible suspects and placed its officers in Northwestern Missouri on the alert.

Glen Boylan, working in an all-night cafe across the street from the Moren store, noticed the fire first. He called the telephone operator, Mrs. O. B. Kilburn, who alerted the residents and called for help from neighboring cities. The engineer of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train stopped at the town and blew short blasts on his whistle to alert others.

Move for Protection
A fireman who accompanied state patrol troopers from Chillicothe, 32 miles away, directed a hastily organized bucket brigade. The officers directed women to stay in their homes and turn on all lights as protection against robbers which have marked such outbreaks in other Missouri towns. No house breakings were reported.

The fires followed the pattern of other suspicious outbreaks in nine North Central Missouri towns in the past two months. They include Higginsville, Higbee, Gilliam, Wakenda, LaCade, Glasgow, Dalton and Mayview.

It was the second time in a week that Oliver Davis, owner of the cafe, has suffered a fire loss. Last Friday his seven-room residence was destroyed by fire. The family had planned to move today into the vacant dwelling which burned down.

The first fire was found in the store room of the Moren Grocery. Moren said the store was closed for Thanksgiving and there had been no heating stove in operation since Wednesday.

A bucket brigade was formed in the town of 800 to fight the flames. The Trenton fire department, which was called to fight the fire last week, was summoned again, but was unable to respond this time because one of its two trucks was broken down. Chillicothe rushed a fireman to the scene to direct the bucket brigade.

Blaze at Flat River

FLAT RIVER, Mo., Nov. 29.—(P)—Fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed the building in the center of the business district occupied by the F. W. Woolworth Co., and the Scott Stores. Fire companies from nearby Desloge and Farmington aided local firemen in fighting the blaze. Assistant Fire Chief Glen R. Pettus estimated the damage in excess of $100,000.

Near Thousand At Convention

Nearly a thousand young people attended the two day convention of the Christ Ambassadors of the Assemblies of God which was held here Wednesday and Thursday at Convention Hall at Liberty Park. The meeting was of the southern district of Missouri but members of the organization from several other states also attended.

Three services were held Wednesday and four services Thursday. A dinner was served at the noon hour to about eight hundred people at the Assembly of God church here Thursday and sandwiches, coffee and pie were served in the evening.

Rev. Loren Wooten of Kansas City, district president, presided over the convention.

Rev. Bird Campbell is pastor of the Assembly of God church in Sedalia.

To Check Loyalty

A. DeVitt Vanech, above, a special assistant to Attorney General Tom Clark, heads a new six-man committee that will prepare for President Truman a set of standards for judging loyalty. The committee's work is expected to lead to a purge of possible subversive employees from the federal service.

Traffic Toll Over Holiday

California Led In Fatalities The Reports Show

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents took the lives of 69 persons over the Thanksgiving holiday, and 14 other deaths resulted from miscellaneous violent causes.

The traffic toll was higher than that estimated by the National Safety Council.

California led the states with seven traffic deaths yesterday. Illinois, New York and Michigan each reported five traffic fatalities, while four each were reported in Arizona, Florida, Georgia and Ohio; three each in Indiana and Pennsylvania; two each in Colorado, Connecticut, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina and Oklahoma; and one each in Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, North Dakota, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington.

The Safety Council, which today reported 3,120 traffic fatalities in October and a total of 27,520 for the first 10 months of 1946, had estimated 50 persons would die in motor mishaps on the holiday. It said, however, that normally 110 persons are killed in traffic on a November Thursday, including deaths occurring later from injuries suffered that day.

The Safety Council said that the traffic toll for the first 10 months this year was 25 per cent higher than for the same period in 1945 and estimated that the fatalities for the entire year would approximate 34,000.

In October 221 reporting cities had perfect records. The largest city was Hartford, Conn.; New Haven, Conn., was second and Des Moines, Ia., was third.

For the 10 month period perfect records were maintained by 37 cities. New Britain, Conn., was the largest; Passaic, N. J., was second and Hamtramck, Mich., was third.

Large Crowds Attend Services

One of the largest crowds in many years attended the Union Thanksgiving services held Thursday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the First Christian church which was sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance.

Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, gave an inspiring talk on "The Art of Saying Thank You."

Others participating in the service were Abbe Rosenthal, Rev. L. A. Swan, Rev. J. Fred King and Rev. Ralph E. Hurd.

Miss Frances Brunkhorst was soloist with Mrs. H. O. Foraker as organist.

Rev. Edgar L. Knight presided over the meeting.

Thanksgiving services held at the Trinity Lutheran, the St. Paul's Lutheran, Calvary Episcopal and Catholic churches were also well attended.

Connally in Call to Act on Reducing Arms

Kiseler Sounds Warning as to Atomic Bomb

By Larry Hauck

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(P)—Kuzma V. Kiseler, foreign minister of White Russia, told the United Nations today there now is a warning of a third World War.

He said that the factories working on atomic bombs are being built in the Soviet Union.

"The atom bomb is a sword of Damocles suspended over a thin thread. Only by removing such a menace can we establish security."

Vishinsky added that the U. N. must guard against failure to generally disarm in all countries and on all weapons "starting with the most dangerous."

Strongly supporting the Soviet Union's arms reduction proposal with its attendant agreement to international inspections, Kiseler emphasized the failure to reach agreement between United States and Russian plans over control of the atom bomb.

Kiseler told the floor after Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.) demanded that the U. N. take action on an arms reduction plan at the current session of the general assembly and he cautioned against any move to sidetrack the atomic energy commission.

No Mention of Veto
Connally did not mention the chance of the veto in any inspection system, a possibility which already has been under fire following Russia's acceptance of the international checks under the security council.

Welcoming the surprise Soviet agreement to international inspections in the field of arms and atom bombs, Connally said in the light of statements by Joseph Stalin and Foreign minister V. M. Molotov that he hoped it would be possible now for the atomic commission to end its stalemate and reach unanimous agreement 'on a system of direct international control of atomic energy with effective safeguards.'

Schoolmate of Mother Of President Dies

DALLAS, Nov. 29.—(P)—Mrs. James E. Payne, 98, a girlhood schoolmate of Mrs. Martha Truman, mother of the president, died yesterday at the home of her son, J. Howard Payne, Dallas postmaster.

She was the widow of Capt. James E. Payne, once a staff member of the old Kansas City Times and an Independence, Mo., newspaper publisher. Mrs. Payne was born in Independence, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Hickman. She attended Heart Grove school at Hickman Mills, Mo., where she met Martha Young, now President Truman's mother.

Asks President To Exercise Powers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(P)—Senator Knowland (R-Cal.) today asked President Truman to end the soft coal strike by exercising presidential powers.

In a letter to Mr. Truman, Knowland suggested:

1. A direct appeal by the President to the miners themselves, with a 48-hour time limit, to return to the pits.

2. A nationwide appeal to volunteers to operate the coal mines under supervision of the army engineers, if necessary.

Knowland told the President that the "economic life of 140,000,000 Americans is being strangled to death."

"No man or no group has a right to do that," he said. "Our government, if we are to have a government, must not permit it to be done."

Pride Normandie To Scrap Heap

PORT NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 29.—(P)—The rusty, burned out hulk of the Normandie, former $65,000,000 pride of the French merchant marine, was berthed today at her final resting place here, awaiting a crew who will begin cutting her into junk next week.

It took a fleet of 12 tugboats five hours and 10 minutes to push the 68,350-ton, 981-foot long vessel the less than 12 miles from a Brooklyn dock yesterday. Bought for scrap from the U. S. maritime commission for $161,000, the Normandie was being refitted for a troop transport at her North Hudson pier in New York when she was swept by fire and capsized in February, 1942.

Report Several Ill Due Food Poisoning

No Ill Effects Except as to Group On One Bus

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—(P)—Nineteen persons who attended the annual Thanksgiving convention of Christ Ambassadors at Sedalia, Mo., were treated at city hospital early today for food poisoning. All but two were released.

The Rev. James D. Cockman, pastor of the Ambassador of God church here, reported that a group of about 120 St. Louisans left for the convention in three buses and several private cars early yesterday.

They ate Thanksgiving dinner at the First Assembly of God church in Sedalia, he said, and started back last night. On the return trip the passengers on one bus became ill and the driver took them to the hospital.

The Christ Ambassador group is the youth organization of the Assembly of God church.

No Illness Here

The Rev. Bird H. Campbell, pastor of the Assembly of God church, said today that none of the local people who attended the Thanksgiving feast given by the Christ Ambassadors in convention here suffered any ill effects from food eaten at the meeting.

Rev. Campbell asserted that the food provided them was cooked in the homes of members of the church here and expressed belief that victims of the reported illnesses evidently obtained food elsewhere that possibly might have made them ill.

He asserted no reports had been received from any other source as to anyone suffering any discomfort from food served them.

Unidentified Man Is Found Dead

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.—(P)—The body of an unidentified man was found near Stanton, Mo., Missouri state highway patrol headquarters at suburban Kirkwood reported today.

Police are checking fingerprints to find out if the body is that of Nazereno Morotti, 51, of Canton, Ill., who was reported missing yesterday.

Cause of the death was not immediately determined, the patrol said.

The patrol said the man apparently had been struck by a hit and run driver on U. S. Highway 66. The patrol reported the man had on expensive clothing and wore an expensive diamond ring. The names had been torn off a social security card and a ration book found in the pockets.

Unlucky

DENVER, Nov. 29.—(P)—Mrs. Therese Aragon would just as soon forget Thanksgiving day.

The 26-year-old woman went to the hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises after the car in which she was riding with her husband Conrad was involved in a collision.

Her brother-in-law, Fares Aragon, started to take her home from the hospital in his automobile and it, too, collided with a car. Mrs. Aragon went back to the hospital for treatment of more serious cuts and bruises.

Death Six Years After Home Bombed

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(P)—A German bomb fell on Iris Ada Porter's home in December, 1940, killing her husband and her baby and seriously injuring the 33-year-old Ilford housewife herself. Iris Ada Porter died this week, almost six years after the tragedy.

"Death due to enemy action," Coronel P. B. Skiels recorded at an inquest today.

Hungry

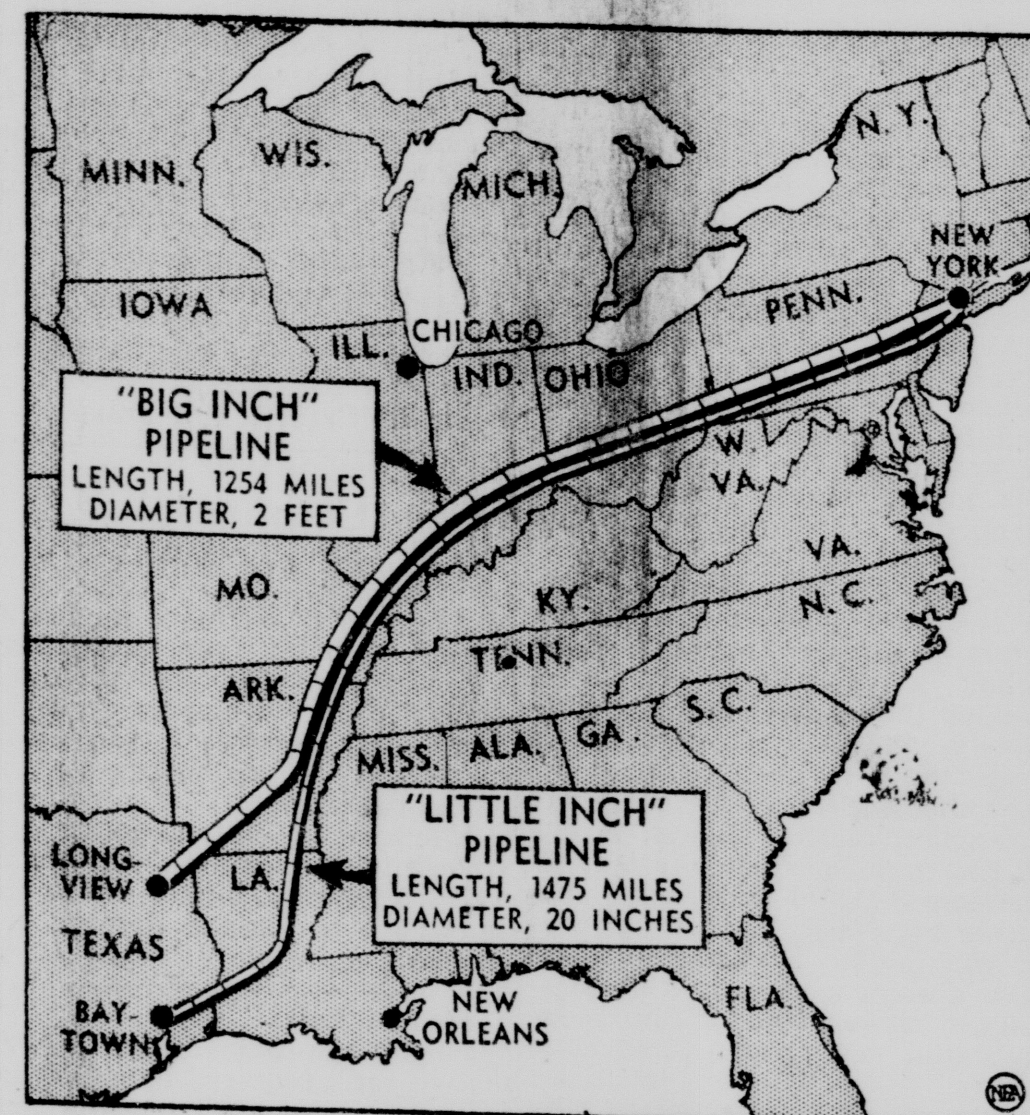

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 29.—(P)—Mrs. Terry Cleland's dinner table was devoid of its Thanksgiving turkey because it was roasting — all roasted — in the refrigerator at the police station as evidence against a man accused of stealing it.

The heartless thief also took a ham and a roasting pan from her oven.

Coal Strike Spotlights 'Inch' Lines

Map above shows the "Little Inch" and "Big Inch" pipelines, which the Department of the Interior is considering for emergency government operation to help alleviate fuel shortage caused by coal strike. Three commercial companies, trying to buy or lease the lines, are confident that 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day could be started flowing within two weeks. The "Inch" lines, built during the war at a cost of about $146,000,000 to transport petroleum, have maximum capacity of 425,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

To Ask Top Issues First

Truman is Being Urged to Center His Fire on Them

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(P)—President Truman reportedly is being urged by some Capitol Hill friends to center his fire on a few major issues in recommendations to the new Republican controlled congress.

Several influential Democrats said privately they hope Mr. Truman produces middle-of-the-road proposals for legislation on labor, housing, taxes and expenditures, the military draft and possibly Army-Navy merger.

They would prefer that he not attempt to cover the broad field of suggestions he made to the last congress.

At that time Mr. Truman asked a legislative branch nominally controlled by the Democrats to act on 21 separate proposals.

Republicans and anti-administration Democrats joined in the smacking down of these and the altering of others out of recognizable form.

With the Republicans now in control of the legislative machinery and likely to pursue their own objectives, many of the Democrats think it would be wise for the president to present his ideas only on the top issues.

Look for Labor Legislation

One of these is likely to be labor control legislation, on which the congressional approach probably will be affected vitally by whether the coal mines still are idle when the legislators meet January 3.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) said he hopes White House recommendations will be forthcoming for "moderate" revisions in the labor laws, to provide the public with greater protection against production stoppages without sacrificing labor's right to organize.

"I am afraid that there will be some rather drastic measures offered in this congress in that field," Lucas told a reporter.

"I think the president owes it to himself to make clear his position and that of the party, before the shooting starts."

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) commented that it is Mr. Truman's duty to report fully on the state of the nation in his annual message to congress. But the Colorado said he thinks there will be more cooperation between the two parties if the president narrows the scope of his recommendations.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said there should be no breakdown in government because Congress is controlled by Republicans and the White House by Democrats.

"The people of this country are entitled to government and there has to be enough cooperation between the two branches to give it to them," he said. "There is no reason why bi-partisan government shouldn't be effective."

Says Soviets Have a Strong Peace Desire

Son of the Late President Gets Views on Trip

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—(P)—Elliott Roosevelt said today that during the 16 days he had spent thus far in the Soviet Union he found "a consuming desire for peace and friendship with the United States" among Russian people and their officials.

"They want peace, they believe in peace," the son of the late president said in an interview. "And they also see no reason why our two systems of government cannot live in peace, side by side."

Roosevelt and his wife, the former Faye Emerson, have talked, through interpreters, to hundreds of Soviet officials and citizens in Moscow, the Moscow vicinity and Leningrad.

During their trip back from Leningrad, Roosevelt said, he was handed a letter written in pencil on a plain piece of paper, signed by three generals and four of the best known statesmen in Russia. The letter said:

"Mr. Roosevelt: Esteeming the memory of your father, Mr. Roosevelt, as a great man of our epoch and a friend of the Soviet Union, we generals and peoples' artists of the Soviet Union—your companions on the train trip from Leningrad—salute you and your wife and hope your visit to the Soviet Union will strengthen the friendship between the American people and the Soviet people which was formed in the years of the joint military struggle against the foe."

Signed by Generals
"We are firmly confident your visit to the Soviet Union will increase the friendship of the American and Soviet peoples in peace-time in their joint struggle for peace and for the prosperity of all peoples desiring peace."

"It has become clear to all that peace in the world is possible only on a basis of friendship among the peoples of great countries, and primarily between the peoples of the United States and the U. S. S. R."

The letter was signed "Generals Borisov, Kapustin, Sukhovsky; Peoples' Artists Yablochkin, Obukhova, Tairov, Koonen."

Yablochkin is one of the best known actresses in Russia; Obukhova is an outstanding singer in the Russian opera; Tairov is director of the Kamerny theater; and Koonen is the first actress of the Kamerny theater.

Roosevelt denied reports published in the United States that he had made a public statement in the Soviet Union criticizing American foreign policy.

'Big Kicks' Out Of a Steer Hide

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 29.—(P)—A Milwaukee tannery is going to get a lot of big kicks — six pair of cowboy boots — in processing the hide of a prize steer and the financial kickback is going to add up to $18,000 or $30,000 for each pair.

The hide from the late T. O. Prude, prize Hereford sold by an Iowa farm boy at the American Royal Livestock Show for $44,375, was bought by the Acme Boot Co. of Clarksville, Tenn., for $4,100. That's about 80 times the cost of a hide from a run-of-the-mine cow.

The hide is at the Albert Trostel & Sons tannery here and the tanning job is going to get the personal supervision of President Albert O. Trostel, Jr.

Even at the initial cost of $4,100, Trostel said, the Acme company will make plenty on the hide. He said he'll get six pair of those $3,000 boots out of the hide and has requests for many more.

At Kansas City, E. W. Williams, meat company president who bought T. O. on the hoof, is in line for two pairs of the boots — free. That was part of the bargain, he said. His wife will get one of the pairs and he plans to walk gingerly around in the others.

Court Declares That Lewis Had 'In Effect Pleaded Guilty' in Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(P)—John L. Lewis today entered a formal plea of "not guilty" as Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough resumed the contempt of court action against him.

The United Mine Workers' president also waived any right to an advisory jury, leaving the district court judge sole arbiter of the case.

The government immediately presented Navy Capt. Norman H. Collisson, federal coal mine administrator, as first witness against the leader of 400,000 striking miners.

One of Lewis' lawyers immediately objected to Collisson's testimony on the ground that the whole proceeding was illegal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(P)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ordered John L. Lewis to trial on contempt today and upheld the court's right to enjoin a walkout in the soft coal mines despite federal anti-injunction laws.

Overruling Lewis' motion for dismissal of the contempt action brought by the government, Goldsborough declared:

"The Norris-La Guardia act did not and does not apply, and the court has the same rights as it had prior to passage of the Norris-La-Guardia act."

Goldsborough said his court had the right to enjoin "a labor union which was about to do something which was against the good of the public and the union itself."

Lewis and his United Mine Workers contended that the Norris-LaGuardia act, curbing the use of restraining orders in labor disputes, nullified Goldsborough's restraining order of Nov. 18 and was the grounds for dismissal of the whole contempt of court action, saying Lewis had the right to ignore it.

Content Law Did Not Apply

Government attorneys on the other hand contended the law did not apply where the government itself was acting as operator of the 3,300 soft coal mines seized during another crippling strike last spring.

Goldsborough's ruling cut short a day and half of argument by attorneys for Lewis that the court lacked authority to restrain the UMW from terminating its government contract. This notice by Lewis was followed by a walkout of 400,000 miners.

"The court repeats," Goldsborough said, "that this proceeding was for the sole purpose of maintaining the status quo in this dispute."

Before handing down his decision, the judge had remarked that Lewis in effect had "pleaded guilty" to contempt by refusing to obey the court's order to keep the labor contract in force.

This was promptly challenged by one of Lewis' lawyers, T. C. Townsend, who said:

"He hasn't entered any plea of guilty, your honor."

After some argument over legal technicalities, the judge ruled:

"The motion to discharge and vacate the motion is overruled."

He then called a five minute recess. Chief government counsel John F. Bennett announced the government was ready to present its first witness against Lewis — Navy Captain N. H. Collisson, federal coal mines administrator.

After the recess, court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. (EST) (1:30 p. m. CST).

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Only a few people in the high bureaucracy of the United Mine Workers know it, but John L. Lewis has troubles of his own among his top-level executives. Despite his calm, David-fighting-Goliath, public-be-damned attitude, Lewis is in the middle of a vital tug-of-war regarding his own successor as president of the union.

It is no secret that Lewis' health is not good. Not only did he have a close call during his appendix operation last summer, but since then he is reported to be suffering from arteriosclerosis, which keeps sufficient blood from going to his head and in some people causes mental delusions. At any rate, Lewis knows that his 3-decade dictatorship of the miners must soon draw to a close and he is thinking about means of preserving the Lewis dynasty.

His logical successor is Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the miners and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania. One of the most popular men in the union, Kennedy has consistently polled a vote as great as or greater than Lewis and his completely independent of Lewis' support.

Kennedy is more studious, more statesmanlike than Lewis, is one of the great parliamentarians of the country and frequently disagrees vigorously through private talks with John L. Labor leaders have always wondered why Kennedy, a close friend of Phil Murray's did not resign from the miners when Murray left; but at any rate he preferred to stay on perhaps because of his $18,000 salary.

As secretary-treasurer he would easily be the rank-and-file choice of the miners to succeed Lewis. John L., however, has another man in mind—his brother.

Bulldozer Denny
A. D. (Denny) Lewis, 57-year-old bulldozing roustabout, is head of the Mine Workers' catch-all District 50, is strictly a roughneck, has none of his brother's brains, oratorical capacity, or courage. Several years ago John L. set Denny up as head of District 50, a union which takes in everything from chemical workers to dairy farmers and which Lewis established to compete with AFL and CIO unions in various industries. Denny devoted himself to setting up a construction workers' union in competition with the AFL, but never got very far. The fact is that organizing costs for District 50 are five times as high as any place else in the union movement, partly because of the paid thugs, petty mobsters and gunmen kept on the payroll for use when the going gets tough.

Lewis' secret strategy is to resign as active president of the union, become president emeritus at full salary and name bulldozer brother Denny as acting president. This Lewis could do through his control over the union's executive board.

However, Denny could never keep the miners together. He never will become better than a paid union hack. Even among John L.'s closest collaborators, his friends are few. Denny is known throughout the union as the chief of John L.'s espionage organization, with the job of finding out who is saying unkind things about brother John behind his back.

If John L. Lewis is able to outwit Tom Kennedy and manipulate his succession into family hands, it will be an even neater trick than standing the government of the United States on its ear.

Two Senator Tafts
Ohio is now supposed to have two Senator Tafts — Bob and Kingsley. However, quite a dispute is raging as to whether Kingsley A. Taft, a distant cousin of Bob's and elected for the unexpired term of former Senator Harold Burton, is at the moment an actual member of the senate.

The question revolves around whether Kingsley began being a senator on November 6, the day after election, or has to wait until December 15, when he will receive his commission of office from Ohio's secretary of state; in other words, whether he will be a senator for fifty-nine or for nineteen days. You might think that is an inconsequential matter, but it has kicked up a furious controversy among Ohio politicians.

The forces of John Bricker want to remove Kingsley Taft as a full term senate prospect should Bricker or Bob Taft land the GOP presidential or vice presidential spot in 1948. Nomination of either would create a senate vacancy.

opening the door for Kingsley Taft to run again; and the Bricker outfit doesn't want another man with the vote catching magic of the Taft name on the hustings. They feel that he can do a lot more self-promoting in fifty-nine than in nineteen days, especially if there is a special congressional session before December 15.

The Bricker boys quote Ohio law, which fixes December 15 as the day he should begin his brief term. But Kingsley, a quiet-spoken Harvard law graduate with 41 months of war service, claims to have an even better authority on his side—the United States constitution. And he has moved into an office on Capitol Hill. It looks as if he has won the verdict in one of the dizziest teapot tempests in Capitol Hill annals.

Fire Companies Make Two Runs
The fire department made two runs within ten minutes Wednesday evening. The first call was at 6:05 o'clock when they made a run to 200 West Jefferson where a short in the wiring caused very slight damage.

The second call came at 6:15 o'clock to the home of Mary Staus, 117 West Henry, where a flue had burned out. Slight damage resulted.

Lots of Service
During the time of Louis XVI, men of rank required four footmen to serve a cup of chocolate. One carried the tray, another the chocolate pot, a third presented the cup, and the fourth stood in waiting with the napkin.

Trailer And Contents Destroyed By Fire
A two-wheel car trailer was burned along with all its contents, Wednesday evening about three-fourths of a mile west of the La Monte Junction on Highway 50. The trailer contained some furniture, radio and toys which were to have been Christmas presents for children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burke, owner of the trailer which he was pulling behind his car.
Mr. Burke, whose home is Newport News, Va., accompanied by his family was driving east on Highway 50. He was stopped by a motorist who had been following him and told of the fire. He was able to get two spare tires off the trailer, but unable to rescue any of the contents.

Trail Blazers Under the River

New York's New Vehicular Tunnel Will be the Longest One in America

Human moles: Sandhogs at work make this eerie picture as they shovel rock and muck, which has been blasted from the face of the Brooklyn-Battery tunnel, into "mucking machine."

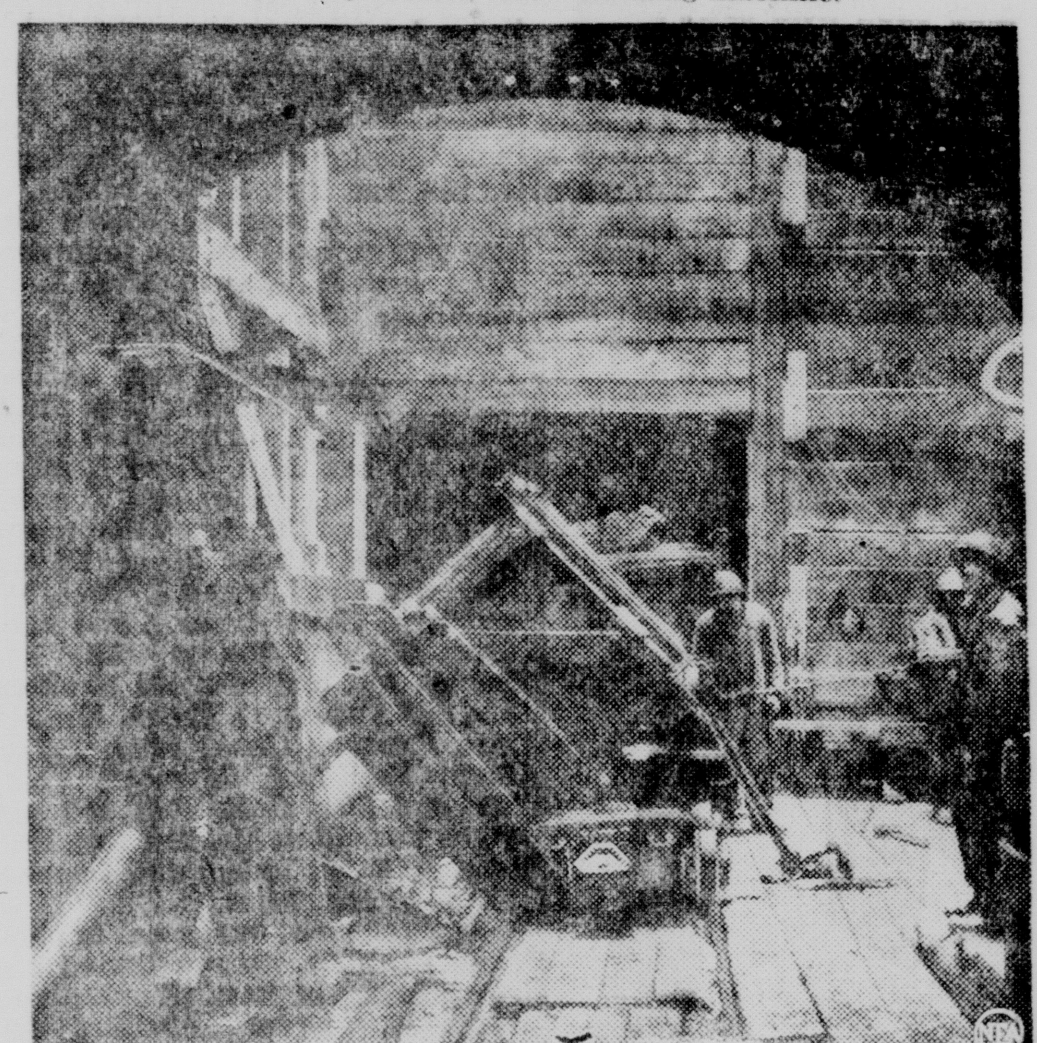

By Bert Brandt
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Almost 100 feet beneath New York's murky East River, a crew of courageous workmen are drilling, hollowing and blasting. Their goal is the completion in 1947 or early in 1948 of the Brooklyn Battery Tunnel—the longest underground highway in America.

Two years from now the 9117-foot, two-way tunnel will be packed with a yearly traffic of 16,000,000 cars; but today the 24-foot-high passageway is a mysterious cavern lit by naked, mist-shrouded light bulbs and populated by human moles. What tomorrow will be a paved, two-lane highway is today only a swampy, muddy trail down which a narrow gauge railroad carries crushed stone and debris.

After three years of Europe and war, I thought I was prepared for anything. But I had not reckoned on the eerie, sub-surface world where men fight grim battles against nature, to which I was taken by Chief Inspector John McTernan, a veteran of 31 years of tunnel digging.

From the crisp November morning we dropped 80 feet in an open mine-cage elevator to the damp quiet of the tunnel mouth. There we walked through a cast-iron decompression chamber—used when the diggers work under pressure—into the dimly lit tunnel. An electric railroad was dumping mud and rock, excavated 2,000 feet away, to be hauled to the surface. In a heavy raincoat, a bakelite helmet to protect my eyes from falling rock and rubber boots, I followed McTernan down the track, my feet squishing and squashing in the muck. A chain of overhead light bulbs dotted the length of the cavern until they disappeared in the heavy fog and mist.

The northern Great Lakes create their own localized snow storms when a wind 20 degrees lower in temperature than the surface of the water tangles with masses of rising vapor.

Muck and gloom: Naked electric lights barely pierce fog of the tunnel. "Mucking machine" in foreground loads conveyor cars; big machine in background lifts one car over another, leap-frog fashion, so they can pass on single-track, narrow-gauge railroad.

Our words, muffled and dull, died away abruptly after we spoke. There was no echo in the almost mile long tunnel. To make conversation, I nervously asked McTernan if there had been any dangerous incidents in this subterranean world. "Oh, no," he replied. "Only once or twice we had had cave-ins or a fire. But we always got out O. K."

Just then a stream of water gushed down through a tiny fissure in the rough stone ceiling, and we jumped aside. I realized then that not so far above us was the roaring river, cutting against its bed.

At the "face" of the tunnel, a wooden scaffolding held two teams of drillers who were boring into the solid rock. The drill made an explosive clattering as it bit into the stone. Drillers, I was told, earned $1.75 per hour, while their helpers got $1.50. Ordinary laborers receive $1.40, electricians $2.00 and trainmen $1.87.

But when they hit muck and mud, the air pressure is turned on, forcing the moisture back into the ground, and making drilling easier. Then men can work a few hours without rest, constantly gulping hot coffee to maintain their body temperatures. At the peak of pressure, laborers work 1 1/2 hours with 4 1/2 hours off. And with every pound of pressure increase, the workmen's wages increase.

The fog was so thick I had to wipe off both sides of my lens. My camera is still rusty. To get my pictures, I used three flash bulbs at a time, angling the lights from the sides to pierce the gloom, and set the lens opening at f5.6. Exposures time ran from 1/50th of a second to 3 seconds.

There are still 1300 feet of rock unbored, but drillers are moving ahead at the daily rate of 20 feet. The "pilot tunnel," the rough channel itself, is 24x24 feet, and it will later be enlarged to the final tunnel dimensions of 32x32 feet. A cast iron shield will hold back the rocks and the river. A cement coating will cover the shield. Then the tunnel will be ready for traffic.

Divorce Action in The Circuit Court

A petition for divorce was filed in the office of the clerk of the county court Friday by Mrs. Opal Rayl versus Everett M. Rayl. General indignities are alleged.

The petition states that the couple was married on or about December 29, 1941, and separated on or about November 4, 1942.

The plaintiff asks care and custody of the two minor children, Donald Dale and Gayle Louise, suit money, attorney's fee and permanent alimony for herself and maintenance for the children.

Fred Hulse Scores For Missouri 'B'

In the Missouri University "B" team football game at Decatur, Ala., Thursday, the only score made by the Missouri team was by Fred Hulse, who crossed the goal line for the only touchdown in a game won by Alabama "B" by 49 to 6.

The touchdown came on a Roger Englert to Fred Hulse pass in the fourth quarter, and later in the same period the Tigers marched from their 49 to the "Bama" six, only to lose the ball on a fumble by Richard Keller.

Wheat Off Nearly Four Cents

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Sagging prices in cash markets and increased receipts at major terminals caused a sell-off in cereal futures today. Wheat led the downturn, dropping nearly 4 cents in the nearby contract.

Denies Dismissal of Contempt Charge Against J. L. Lewis

ment's case actually is a criminal action instead of a civil proceeding, as designated and therefore should be thrown out.

On this argument, too, the judge interrupted to say: "The restraining order was not issued for the purpose of punishing a contempt of the Smith-Connally act (which forbids strikes against the government) but for the purpose of letting the court decide whether the coal contract with the government could be terminated."

"Then it is not a punitive proceeding sir?" Burke inquired. "It is exactly what I said it was," Goldsborough declared.

He also told Burke: "If you know the exact difference between a civil and criminal contempt, you are the only person in the United States who does."

Assistant Attorney General Jno. F. Sonnett, chief government counsel, then announced: "We are prepared to meet the requirements of both a civil and criminal contempt actions."

The union lawyer, Welly K. Hopkins, objected in advance to testimony of all government witnesses, declaring the trial proceedings "do not sufficiently inform the defendants (Lewis and the UMW) of the nature of the proceedings against them."

The court noted his objection and then directed assistant attorney general John F. Sonnett, chief government counsel, to go ahead with his examination of Colission.

In Lewis' behalf, Hopkins told the court he was entering the plea of innocent "in order that the record be abundantly clear."

Advent
Tomorrow is Advent Sunday. This day marks the opening of the church year and the beginning of the four-week season when Christians prepare for the great festival of Christmas.

During this interval, men are invited to meditate upon the sublime mystery of Christ's incarnation and to purify their hearts for His coming. Behind all the joyous expectation of Advent must be the doleful realization that the world to which Christ comes again is far from being the world of peace in which alone He can find comfort and rest.

But if the world at large holds little solace for the infant Son of God, individual men and women can make their own hearts a refuge for His contentment and joy. By repenting of their sins and by rededicating themselves to His service, the Christian may hope to kneel as worthily at the shrine of Bethlehem as did the shepherds 2,000 years ago.

All over the world men bring presents for their loved ones at Christmas in imitation of the generosity of the Wise Men who followed a star out of the East bringing royal gifts to the Newborn. But what of those who are not of our family? What of those who are in want and will have no Christmas unless some one remembers them in the name of Christ?

Americans may look forward to a bountiful and merry Christmas. But in war-ravaged lands across the sea, millions of men, women, and children suffer hunger and many may die from starvation unless the Christian world has pity upon them. By opening their purses to these needy during the days of Advent, Christians will know on Christmas morn that as surely as they have brought joy to some unknown home far away, so have they brought rejoicing to the Christ Child who pleads anew for a spirit of love and brotherhood in the world.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"ANCIENT AND MODERN NECROMANCY, ALIAS MESMERISM AND HYPNOTISM, DENOUNCED" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 1, 1946.

Golden Text: Proverbs 21:30.
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Deliver me, O Lord, from the evil man; preserve me from the violent man." (Psalms 140:1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We should become more familiar with good than with evil, and guard against false beliefs as watchfully as we bar our doors against the approach of thieves and murderers. Evil thoughts and aims reach no farther and do no more harm than one's belief permits." (p. 234).

Kansas Shares Big Six Championship With the Strong Oklahoma Eleven

By Skipper Patrick

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 29.—(P)—The Big Six conference's hottest football race in history was at an end today with the lightning fast, fire eating, riflin' Ray Evans and his Kansas Jayhawk teammates sharing the championship with a big and powerful Oklahoma eleven.

Coach George Sauer's Kansas, picked by the coaches last September to place third to Oklahoma and Missouri, knocked off the retiring champion Missouri Tigers 20-19 before a record 29,000 fans here yesterday as Evans flashed a performance described by opposing Coach Don Faurot "as one of the finest, if not the finest, ever seen here."

Sauer admitted that the Jayhawks had received a couple of bowl "feelerers," but declared he doubted that the "boys would want to play in anything except a major game." Athletic Director E. C. Quigley declined to comment on bowl possibilities. (Sun bow officials at El Paso announced Kansas had been sent a "feeler.")

Bill DeLancey Dies at Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 29.—(P)—Bill DeLancey, one of the most promising young baseball catchers ever to go up to the major leagues, only to have his career cut short by failing health, died last night at his home here after an extended illness.

Death came for the former St. Louis Cardinal backstop on his 35th birthday — Thanksgiving day.

DeLancey skyrocketed to baseball stardom in 1934 when, as a 22-year-old rookie, he won the first string catching job with the Cardinals.

DeLancey caught all seven of the games in the 1934 World Series when the Cardinals topped the Detroit Tigers, four games to three, and he chipped in with a

All Big Six Selections Come From Four Teams

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 29.—(P)—The four teams that made a dogfight of the campaign to the last second of play in the season—Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska—dominated the Associated Press' All-Big Six Conference mythical eleven for 1946.

Coach Jim Tatum's powerful Oklahoma Sooners, who shared the conference championship with the Kansas Jayhawks landed four men on the first honor eleven, Missouri and Kansas three each, and Nebraska one.

On the second team, Oklahoma and Nebraska each gained four positions, Missouri two and Kansas one. The coaches and writers who cooperated in the nominations failed to support an Iowa State or Kansas State player.

Halfback Joe Golding and Guard Plato Andros, both of Oklahoma, and Riflin' Ray Evans, Kansas' great tailback, were unanimous choices for the first team. James Kekeris, Missouri's 234-pounder who won his third straight berth, and Wade Walker, Oklahoma, each missed by only two votes, but were ahead of other tackle candidates.

The fourth Oklahoma man earning a first team job was John Rapacz, 213 pound center from center from Kalamazoo, Mich., who starred for Jim Tatum's Jacksonville Navy team during the war. Rapacz nosed out Ralph Stewart of Missouri, 1945 All-Star, for the honor.

Roland Oakes, 180 pound Missouri end from Winnebago, Ill., and Kekeris, were the only repeaters from 1945. David Schmidt, speedy little Kansas end from Milwaukee, Wis., who won the honor as a freshman and Naval trainee last year, dropped to the second team. Evans was an All-Star in 1942 before going to the Army where he played with the Second Army Air Force Superbombers.

Rounding out the first team backfield are Loyd Brinkman, 170 pound Missouri Wingback, and Thomas Novak, Nebraska's 200-pound fullback who had observers comparing him to Sam Francis, former Husker great, before a mid-season injury slowed him down.

Negro Killed in Grid Game Fight

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 29.—(P)—Muskogee authorities canceled a Negro dance and ordered all beer taverns in the city closed last night as a precaution against disturbances after a football game fight in which one Negro was killed, two others were injured and two white policemen hurt.

Chief of Police R. E. Davis said Oliver Davis was shot fatally through the heart. Jack Cato was in a critical condition from a bullet wound and Eugene Gaines suffered knife wounds and bruises. All three were Tulsa Negroes.

The fight began during a football game between two Negro high schools. Davis said, and Policemen Bill Swanson and Carol Huggins, white officers, were hurt slightly in attempting to quell the disturbance, and retreated.

Two Negro officers whom Davis identified as Mack Cobb and O. C. Patterson of Taft, Okla., came to their assistance, and told the police chief they each fired once. Patterson told Davis he fired his gun into the air.

Several hundred white persons attended the game, but none were involved in the fight Davis said. He ordered all Muskogee police out for special duty and began an investigation.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(P)—A man who is close to the center of minor league baseball affairs, but not close enough to say for sure whether the reports that Judge W. G. Brannan will retire are true, claims that so many successors to that "Kluge" probably will turn up at Los Angeles next week and get into the picture. "He might not be a bad dark horse," our informant adds. "Acting on the theory that another unofficial nomination won't hurt, this corner offers the name of Jack Zeller, former general manager of the Tigers for consideration. If he is available, Zeller surely knows all the angles of baseball and his proposal to abolish farm systems should make him the logical candidate of the 'independents' who don't want the minors ruled by the major leagues. One certainty is that the remaining unattached clubs will have to get behind one man or the contest of the farm systems will have their own way."

Jorge Pasquel, Mexican League boss, writes a New York friend that he's willing to "make up with American baseball, but only if Happy Chandler apologizes for numerous slurs and if his league is recognized as a major circuit. Why doesn't he ask for first choice in the draft, too?"

End of the Line

Clyde (Buck) Starbuck, Iowa State Teachers coach, figures his football team has the best defensive record in the country, yielding only 760 yards in seven games. But no one remembered to send statistics to the Collegiate Bureau, thereby throwing Buck for a loss.

Some of Big Team Coaches In Changes

Tributes Paid Them At Colleges They Had Served

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(P)—Cornell, Colgate and Texas made the departures of their coaches memorable occasions in closing their 1946 football schedules on Thanksgiving day.

While Cornell's Big Red loss to Penn at Philadelphia, 26-20, after scaring the daylight out of the Quakers, the game was one that Ed McKeever, who is leaving Ithaca after two seasons, can point to with pride.

The husky Penn forces were expected to sample McKeever's crew, but Cornell drew first blood scoring the first time the Red put the ball in play from scrimmage and adding two more touchdowns in the final period after the Quakers thought they were out of danger. By losing, Cornell lost the mythical Ivy league title. The championship goes to Yale which has a 4-1-1 record.

The Texas Longhorns presented the venerable Dana X. Bible with a going-away gift in a 24-7 victory over Texas A&M. Bible, who steps out of the coaching ranks after 34 years, saw his team—rated No. 1 in the nation in mid-October—salvage a third place in the Southwest conference standings after an in-and-out season.

Kerr in Grid Exit

Andy Kerr's Colgate Red Raiders came through in storybook fashion to make his exit from the grid picture a pleasurable one. The Raiders were trailing Brown 7-0 going into the third period. Between halves Kerr pleaded with his charges to go out and get three touchdowns. They did just that and won 20-14.

Arkansas, already assured of tying for the lead in the Southwest conference, was beaten by Tulsa 14-13 despite a two touchdown rally in the second half. The victory seemed certain to keep Tulsa in contention for a bid to its sixth straight bowl appearance.

The University of Kansas wound up its most successful season in 16 years with a 20-19 triumph over Missouri's big Tigers.

The victory gave the Jayhawks a tie with Oklahoma for the Big Six crown. Each team has four victories and one defeat.

In the Southern conference, William and Mary trounced Richmond 40-0 to gain the runner-up spot to North Carolina's champions and win the Virginia State title. Wake Forest sniped under a crippled South Carolina crew 35-0, Virginia Tech downed its traditional rival, VMI 20-7 and Davidson beat Furman 13-7.

Denver, Big Seven conference leader, trampled Colorado college 28-6 in a non-league game, while Utah State defeated Utah 22-14 and Colorado U. shut out Colorado A&M, 18-0.

Bradley university was beaten by St. Louis 36-20 and Fresno State shaded Idaho 13-12. New Mexico A&M won from Texas College of Mines 14-7 and Wichita defeated Arizona State (Tempe) 34-19. Chattanooga thumped Cigar bowlbound Rollins 34-6.

Bible Farewell To Coaching

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.—(P)—Dana X. Bible bid farewell to the coaching profession today — but not to football.

The little general of the grid-iron, who saw his Texas Longhorns close his career in a blaze of glory by beating bitter rival Texas A&M, 24-7 yesterday with Bobby Layne putting on one of his greatest one-man shows, departed soon after by plane for Philadelphia to see the Army-Navy game.

Perchance he also will be talking a little football business there. As athletic director at the University of Texas, Bible has announced big plans for making his school a national power in the game. He is going after the top teams, not only to be played in the east, midwest and on the coast but to come to Texas for major intersectional battles.

Bible smiled misty-eyed yesterday as his boys flocked around him upon finishing its smashing conquest of Texas A&M. In the fifty-third meeting of the two state schools.

Assistant Coach Blair Cherry will succeed Bible as head mentor of the Longhorns Jan. 1.

THE GREATEST BAKING POWDER IMPROVEMENT IN 50 YEARS!

Better Baking 3 Ways!

Improved WITH... FOOD CALCIUM

- BAKINGS LOOK BETTER!
THE FOOD CALCIUM in the new KC permits more even distribution of the fine, active ingredients throughout the baking powder. This promotes more uniform action—gives bakings the light, smooth texture and inviting rich appearance everyone enjoys.
- BETTER TASTE!
New KC assures full flavor of other ingredients—in your baked goods you get no soda taste from K.C.
- BETTER FOR YOU, TOO!
KC makes everything you bake with it a valuable source of FOOD CALCIUM—adding 2 to 5 times more FOOD CALCIUM than the fresh milk used in a baking, depending on the recipe. Thus KC joins milk as a fine source of this vital food element.

The Doctor Says

By William A. O'Brien, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The commonest form of hearing loss in adults is nerve deafness, in which degeneration of the hearing nerve results in its failure to transmit sound impulses. Nerve deafness develops earlier in some persons than in others, probably because of an inherited susceptibility. In nerve deafness, loss of hearing tends to be progressive and usually is associated with ringing in the ears and loss of tones in the high registers. Lessened ability to hear through the bone as well as through the air is experienced. Operations are futile. Patients with nerve deafness should be told the truth. It is futile for them to undergo operations on the nose, removal of tonsils, or inflation of the eustachian tubes. The majority of adults with nerve deafness apparently consider their trouble to be due to "catarrh" of the eustachian tube. They take advertised remedies and go from one healer to another in the hope that their "catarrh" deafness can be cured. Unfortunately, there is no medicine or operation which will cure nerve deafness. The degree of hearing loss is directly proportional to the amount of nerve tissue which is destroyed, and degenerated nerve tissue cannot regenerate. The Army and Navy have established special centers for the rehabilitation of those who developed nerve deafness in military service. An outstanding program of help has been developed in these centers. Patients with nerve deafness need assistance from every source. The ear specialist gives them the benefit of his advice with respect to their condition and its outcome. They are taught to read lips and to try to wear a good hearing aid. Their speech can be improved so that they have no difficulty in making themselves understood. Their morale is usually poor, however, and they often suffer from great depression. Hearing Devices Help. Wearing a good hearing aid should be considered in the same class as wearing eye-glasses, according to Dr. A. C. Furstenberg, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, with this difference: Hearing aids do not carry to the ear the same sounds that we naturally hear. Patients have to learn to listen to new sounds, but once they have learned to do so they have the feeling of accomplishment which comes from mastering a new language. Hearing aids should be worn during the working hours and not taken off at will. The hearing aid should be fitted to the ear which suffers the least impairment of hearing (not the bad ear). In most instances, the air conduction instrument is more efficient than are those used for bone conduction. Hearing aids do not wear out the nerve if they are worn constantly. They simply help the patient to hear, without affecting his ears one way or the other.

CALL ME LIZ
by Rene Ryerson Mart

THE STORY: Red McFan, army pilot, comes home with a chestful of ribbons and a cocky swagger. His old boss offers him a chance to finish school and a part-time job. Meanwhile, Red's boss's son, Russ, is his closest friend. Russ is in love with Liz, Red's girl. Red doesn't like Russ, but he can't seem to make any time on a date. Liz provides for him. The next day, however, he picks up a cute-coded, takes her to the movies, kisses her goodnight. He feels better.

IX

MONDAY morning Red started to work in the laboratory. The first Liz knew about it was when Russ brought him in and said smilingly, "Well, here's your new helper."

Her unpleasant surprise registered on her mobile face. "Helper?" she said tactlessly, caught for the moment off guard. "You mean he's going to work here?"

"Just mornings," Russ explained. "Red is slated for a job in the laboratory when we open the new plant. We want him to work here and get in touch with what we're doing, while he's going to school."

"Oh, I see," Liz said purposely. "Red is slated for a job in the laboratory when we open the new plant. We want him to work here and get in touch with what we're doing, while he's going to school."

"What in heck does he think we are?" Red thought irritably. He was fed up without the assignment the Professor threw at them for next day's class. He swore as he read the assignment over in his room that night: "Write a descriptive essay of some scene in your past, preferably your childhood, which impressed itself deeply on your mind. Try not just to remember the incident as you write about it, but try to relive it. Recapture the way you felt at the time."

He made two or three attempts to start writing and then he threw down his pen in disgust. He got up and walked back and forth across the room. Suddenly something clicked in his mind. He could remember things to write about all right. Plenty of things without going back to his childhood.

HE sat down and began to write. He wrote rapidly remembering the incident vividly. An early morning mission over Italy. A clear morning. Visibility unlimited.

Venice under his left wing. As calm and serene down there that morning as if war were a million miles away. The dark Adriatic and the sun coming up over the mountains of Yugoslavia.

The break into the coast and the target. Test your guns. And now the flak, the little black flowers of death. Blossoming in the morning sky. Roll up and over and dive down. Down. Doing 450 miles an hour. Release bombs. Guns going. Pull up and out of it. Pressure forcing one down and out until the red haze came.

And then miraculously the open sky again. The little black flowers left far behind. Out of it and safe. Head for home and the safe.

Red wrote it as he remembered it. Wrote with short staccato sentences, the feelings of excitement, fear and elation pouring over him until the sweat streaked down his face.

He finished writing in a whirl of creative pride. He laid down his pen and read back over what he had written. His flush of accomplishment began to fade. Sure it was good. It expressed what he had seen and felt that morning. But it wasn't written according to good English form.

He could see the stiff old English prof going over it. Picking it to pieces. Marking the pages black with underscored errors. (To Be Continued)

Morale of Soldiers and Sailors at Low Ebb On Islands the Army and Navy Want to Keep

Men Feel They Are Victims of the Same
Neglect That is Giving the Bases They
Man in the Pacific Back to the Jungle

Marine Private Leon L. Sands of St. Paul, Minn., stands guard over a Jap POW as he works on a sign for the Second Marine Division cemetery at Saipan. POWs aren't allowed to work inside actual cemetery grounds, which are the best kept spots on all the Pacific islands.

Editor's Note: To give you a clearer picture of the problems already besetting the Pacific islands over which the U. S. is demanding exclusive control, an NEA Service correspondent takes you on a 25,000-mile tour of that vast ocean domain. This is the last of four dispatches based on his extensive trip.

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

OKINAWA, Nov. 29—On the Pacific islands which the Navy and Army want to keep in American hands for America's defense, the morale of the soldiers and sailors stuck with manning those bases is at a low ebb.

They are beginning to feel they are victims of the same neglect that is giving most of the islands we won from the Japs back to the jungle. The crumbling airfields, the lack of supplies and repair parts, the breakdown of communications are having as bad an effect on the men themselves as they are on the physical equipment and maintenance of these far-flung bases.

It is the most bitter here on Okinawa, which was the bitter extreme of the war in the Pacific. The men resent the fact that the shortage of our own military forces has resulted in former Jap soldiers being armed by the U. S. as military police — with police power over the U. S. GIs.

That is a situation unique on Okinawa. But the gripes about mail and movies — perhaps the major morale factors during the war — were loud and vigorous on every island visited in this month long survey.

Men who were out here during the war claim that at no time during the fighting was there such confusion in handling of mail. It is so acute the Navy has sent its inspector general, Admiral Carleton H. Wright, to investigate.

A Navy ensign from the state of Washington told how the mail snafu broke up his engagement because his fiancée claimed he hadn't written since he left. He said he had written every day and had received only one letter from her in the months he's been gone; that letter, breaking the engagement, said she had written every day, too.

On Laura Island, on Majuro atoll, a Coast Guard station that's probably the loneliest spot in the whole chain of Pacific bases, a sailor unhappily summed up the situation:

"During the war," said M. D. Wakefield of Newton, Ill., "they did everything for the men out here. The mail was good and they sent out the best movies. There was plenty of Red Cross workers and the USO shows were plentiful and good. Now you never see a Red Cross worker, seldom see a camp show, and the movies aren't worth looking at I guess, they've just forgotten we're still out here."

One of the loudest critics of the movies is Commodore Ben W. Wyatt, deputy military governor for the Marshall Islands, who says he's written futile appeals for a few first run pictures to replace those he claims are hardly worth the electricity to run them.

Nowhere on the month's tour of the islands did this reporter see a picture advertised at an Army or Navy theatre which had played a first run theatre in the States in the last year.

Lack of clothes and the decay of plumbing and living quarters are added factors.

The men on Okinawa have the longest tales of woe. To the lack of mail and good movies and the use of Japs for MP duty, they

No Injuries In A Car-Truck Accident

Considerable damage resulted to a 1941 Plymouth coupe of Martin E. Gerit, Stover, Wednesday evening when it sideswiped a 1940 International truck, of Fred Adams, Self, Mo., on highway 65, about 3 miles south of the Rock Island underpass.

According to State Trooper Allman and Sgt. Rodecker the truck was parked along the highway and the coupe driven by Mr. Gerit was headed south the same as the truck.

A book about the history, cultivation and use of tea appeared in China in 780 at the request of the tea merchants.

add the complaint that the Army has been so free with the jeeps, trucks and other equipment that more natives are riding in vehicles than Americans.

Okinawa's non-fraternization rule raises hot debate among the men, too. Strong barbed wire protection has been thrown around the many native towns, and most of the nearby farm land is posted with signs reading "Out of bounds to military personnel." But in some cases, these barricades and signs were put up at the request of the natives after "incidents" with American troops.

On the islands, the prettiest spots are the perfectly kept U.S. cemeteries. The jungle may be reclaiming airfields, but it has not been allowed to intrude on the graves of the men who died in winning these bases.

And of all the bases, the one where the least gripes are heard is Saipan. Many officers and men have their families here and there are beaches to rival those in Honolulu and hot dog stands to rival those anywhere in the U. S.

It is the only base where most of the enlisted men had a kind word for their commanding officer, Capt. Don F. Smith, USN; and it's the only island where the main desire of each man stationed on it is not to get home as soon as possible.

Approves Soldier Census

Russia Originally Put Idea of Troop Count Before the United Nations

By Francis W. Carpenter
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 27.—(P)—The United Nations political committee approved a worldwide soldier census today and decisively rejected repeated Russian attempts to have atomic and jet-propelled weapons accounted in that inventory of forces.

Russia originally put the idea of a troop count before the United Nations. But the plan which emerged from a tumultuous five-hour and 40-minute meeting, after six days of debate, virtually was stamped "made in Britain."

The crisis came on a British motion to enlarge Russia's original proposal which had called only for a count of soldiers on alien lands. The British won, 40 to 10, with two abstentions, on their move to enumerate all military forces as well. France and Russia voted against the motion. Britain and the United States stood together for the overall inventory of troops.

The final vote of the whole troop count resolution still is to come but the result apparently will follow the lineup shown in eight successive roll calls today.

The committee adjourned at 4:20 p. m. (EST) until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow after voting, 29 to 13, against deciding today on a high-potential Egyptian amendment.

Egypt surprised the committee this morning with a proposal that the General Assembly recommend that U. N. members having armed forces stationed on territory of other members, except in cases covered by the U. N. Charter, "withdraw them without delay."

The United States contended it must have time to study this proposal. Russia was the only one of the five great powers ready to decide today on the proposition. Egypt is presently negotiating with Britain for the complete withdrawal of British forces from Egypt.

The decisions taken today were: 1. Britain won a declaration stating the belief of the committee that troop report and arms limitation, proposed separately by Soviet Russia, were part of the same question. The roll call was 33 for, 17 against, two abstaining.

2. The British won on their amendment to the effect that as the "first step" in the study of disarmament, the United Nations must submit troop information specified in the resolution. The vote was 36 for, 12 against, four abstentions.

3. The committee unanimously approved sections calling for reports on troops in alien non-enemy areas as originally proposed by Russia, and on former enemy soil, as accepted by Russia at the suggestion of the United States. A British amendment to include "military type organizations" was approved also.

4. The committee adopted the British amendment, supported by the United States with vigorous words, for the domestic troop count also.

5. The committee approved a United States proposal for the reports to be made as of Dec. 15, 1946. This killed a British amendment demanding verification of the inventory "on-the-spot" by a Security Council committee. The vote was 25 for, 19 against, seven abstentions. Russia voted with China, France and the United States for this while Britain voted "no."

6. Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, lost on efforts to widen the inventory to include reports on arms including atomic bombs, rockets and jet-propelled weapons. Two roll calls were taken and in each case the vote was 24 against, 13 for, 10 abstentions. France and Russia voted together both times.

7. Molotov lost a fight to require that information on troops at home be submitted to the Security Council when it considers that problem of disarmament. The motion was rejected 31 to 10, with 10 abstentions.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, emphatically objected to what he called the "unfair" tactics of Molotov in trying to include the armaments count in the resolution. He said the United States had nothing to hide but that Molotov's proposal was not in order at this time.

Molotov contended the committee, by accepting the British amendment joining the subjects of troops inventory and disarmament, had made his proposal proper and he insisted on it. The roll calls resulted in his defeat.

Molotov reminded the committee that Russia had in the first instance brought up the subjects of disarmament and troop inspection. He said Russia would report on its home forces and armaments when the general topic of arms limitation is taken up and he insisted vainly that the two points be handled separately.

Pan American DC-3 Crashes, 22 Killed

The President Off Diet For Thanksgiving

Turkey Presented By Boston Newsboys To Have Honor Place

By Ruth Cowan
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Truman and a few friends will feast on a Thanksgiving turkey sent by Boston newsboys who contributed their pennies and nickels to buy the fowl.

Eighteen And Half Pound Turkey
When ready for the carving knife, the bird will weigh 18½ pounds. It was the first of four gobblers received by the President. The other three will go into cold storage to be eaten later, Mrs. Mary E. Sharpe, White House housekeeper, said. She gave the Thanksgiving day menu as follows:

Celery and olives
Clear bouillon
Roast turkey with sage and bread dressing.
Giblet gravy
Candied sweet potatoes, buttered peas, cauliflower au gratin
Orange and watercress salad with French dressing
Pumpkin pie with cheese
Candied fruits and nuts
Coffee.

Few Guests Invited
The President and his wife and their few guests will sit down to dinner at 2 p. m., probably in the private family dining room which is more informal than the state dining room where last night the brilliant diplomatic dinner was held. The first state dinner since 1939.

The Trumans didn't know whether their only child, Margaret, would be home for Thanksgiving, but Mrs. James Helm, White House social secretary, said Mrs. Truman was hoping she would be. The 22-year-old girl, who has ambitions for a singing career, has been in New York studying with her vocal teacher, Mrs. T. J. Strickler of Kansas City.

President Truman has to watch his waistline, and Mrs. Sharpe said she has instructions to hold down on fattening foods. But for Thanksgiving the President is going off the diet reservation.

Outside of watching calories, preparing menus for the Presidential table is simple Mrs. Sharpe said. The Trumans are easy to please—they "really eat everything," she said.

"The President likes beef—most midwesterners do," she continued. He not only eats his spinach, but he likes it. The same goes for salads. And like most men he is a pie-eater.

Tax Evasion Racket 'Broken Wide Open'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Treasury agents have "broken wide open a widespread tax evasion racket growing out of the poultry black market in the New York city area," Secretary Snyder reported today.

Snyder said the agents had cracked down already on some 1,200 Connecticut farmers and a number of shippers and processors, and that the number was growing daily, with many making complete disclosures and naming the persons they dealt with.

Collections of additional taxes and fraud penalties for failure to report over-ceiling payments for income taxes have reached $350,000, Snyder said, adding it was expected the total recovery by the government would go to $3,000,000.

The secretary said that treasury agents working among Connecticut groups supplying the New York market had cracked the case by "effective use of the perjury provisions of the criminal code."

One is Killed in Warehouse Blast

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—One person was killed and 38 persons were injured, four seriously, today by a warehouse explosion that shattered windows of a passing street car and showered the car with debris.

Fire followed the mysterious blast that leveled the one-story brick building of the Boxer Tobacco House at 2436 North Ashland avenue, on the North side, and rocked the surrounding neighborhood. Most of the injured were reported to have been passengers on the street car.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Warren Nefford and Sam Levi Anderson, both of Green Ridge; Miss Margaret Jones, Warsaw; Donald Dean Kuhlman, Knob Noster, admitted for tonsillotomy.

Mrs. Blanche Collins, 1302 East Ninth street, admitted for medical treatment.

Effects of Strike Felt Keenly

Thousands More Workers Idled By Closing of Many Plants

By Elaine Kahn

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A partly dimmed-out nation today reeled under the growing impact of its second major coal stoppage within a year as unemployment in related industries hit 80,000 and there were indications 200,000 to 250,000 workers would be idle by next week.

All phases of life felt the effects of the soft coal walkout. Schools from faraway Denver to Philadelphia have closed heatless buildings; 80,000 steel, railroad and river workers were thrown out of work; 60,000 citizens in Utah pleaded for coal to warm their houses; and 21 states observed "brownouts" more drastic than those imposed in wartime.

There were predictions of worse things to come if the nation's 400,000 bituminous coal miners continue their seven-day walkout. Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of U. S. Steel Corp., the country's leading steel producer, last night said coal stocks in company plants are almost nonexistent and operations "already materially reduced, will soon come to a virtual standstill."

In Atlanta, Ga., the manager of the Chamber of Commerce predicted 40,000 persons there will be out of work within a week if the coal walkout continues. The tri-state industrial association predicted 100,000 employees in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio would also be idle within a week. In a month, the Association said, all 200,000 workers would be out of work.

Many New Layoffs
New layoffs today included 9,000 at Sharon, Pa., Steel Corp. plant, 27,000 industrial workers at Toledo, O., 1,500 Norfolk and Western Railroad employees and 1,376 Virginia Railway workers.

In addition, the Youngstown, Ohio, Sheet and Tube Co., expected to lay off another 10,000 workers tomorrow and 3,600 steel workers at Birmingham, Ala., will be affected by the end of the week.

Utah, where the temperature yesterday was a chilly 33, was hardest hit by the coal stoppage. At Provo, the county commissioners and chamber of commerce, appealed to John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers to provide coal for the Ironton Coking Ovens which provide heat for the county's 60,000 citizens.

"The health and even the lives of some people will be jeopardized if heat in the homes is shut off as scheduled this week," the appeal said.

Heat Cut Off
Utah county schools, including the 4,000-student Brigham Young university, and commercial users had their heat supply cut off a week ago.

Heat in the state capital building at Salt Lake City was shut off by order of acting Gov. E. E. Monson while the state fuel conservation committee considered asking all Utah schools to close and having their coal stocks distributed to the homes.

In neighboring Colorado, where many schools and colleges have already closed doors to frigid classrooms, the state coal consultant, Thomas Allen, mapped plans to reopen "by any means" the abandoned mines to provide essential fuel.

Michigan students were also in line for unscheduled vacations as the state fuel administrator ruled "schools are not essential users and unless they can find coal locally or in neighboring communities they will have to close."

Schools at Lansing juggled supplies so as to keep open until Dec. 9.

In the state of Washington, where only 14,000 tons of coal are available, the schools at Walla Walla and several smaller communities are closed.

Many schools in the Pennsylvania soft coal regions were closing at noon today for the usual Thanksgiving holiday but did not plan to reopen next week unless the walkout is ended.

Christmas Seals Again on Sale

The Christmas seals, symbol of the fight against tuberculosis and which have become an American tradition at this season of the year, are again on sale.

The bright little seals, which this year depict a lamp lighter, are going out again all over the world on letters and packages. Christmas seals are little things in themselves. A whole sheet costs only a dollar. But the thing for which Christmas seals stand is big.

The seal sale began on November 25 and will continue until Christmas. Each little seal is a symbol of health.

Oh, Oh! ... It's Time to ... SCRA-A-AM!

Illinois In Protest To Santa Fe

Claims Damage To Many Communities And Individuals

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The state of Illinois today filed a petition with inter-state commission examiner C. E. Boles in opposition to the proposed entry of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe into St. Louis, declaring that the plan would cause damage to many Illinois communities and to thousands of individuals.

The petition, filed by assistant Attorney-General William C. Wines, charged the proposed plan and results of traffic changes related to the plan would bring a loss of traffic on three branch lines of the Alton railroad which would eventually cause abandonment of those lines.

Predicts Loss To Business
The state's petition also predicted a loss of business on the Missouri Pacific Illinois line between East St. Louis and Thebes, Ill.

The surprise request by the state of Illinois was followed by another sudden development in the case just before the hearing adjourned until Friday.

Frederic G. Dorety, chief counsel of the Santa Fe, asked that the four principal opposing railroads, which are in bankruptcy, be ordered to furnish the Santa Fe with a complete picture of their financial conditions.

Dorety's request, promptly objected to by attorneys for the anti-Santa Fe group, indicated he intends to contest the claim of the Missouri Pacific, Frisco, Rock Island and Cotton Belt that they are too broke to afford Santa Fe competition.

The proposed extension of the Santa Fe from Kansas City would be accompanied by an arrangement between the Santa Fe, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio. The latter road is expected to take over operation of the Alton railroad early next year.

Earlier today, William F. Kirk, assistant general manager of the Missouri Pacific, testified that even under the heaviest strain of wartime demands, the railroads linking St. Louis with the west and southwest never reached their traffic capacity.

Kirk served for over two years as co-ordinator of rail traffic for the office of defense transportation east of the Mississippi river.

He said some transcontinental lines originally scheduled for this city was rerouted because the eastern railroads could not handle it readily, not because western roads were unable to take care of it.

The first public witness to be called by the opposition, Thomas McNally, a manufacturer of coal-washing and crushing apparatus in Pittsburg, Kan., said no additional rail service was necessary from the Missouri - Kansas - Oklahoma mining region to St. Louis. He said 24-hour service is now available.

Trailer And Contents Destroyed By Fire

A two-wheel car trailer was burned along with all its contents, Wednesday evening about three-fourths of a mile west of the La Monte Junction on Highway 50. The trailer contained some furniture, radio and toys which were to have been Christmas presents for children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burke, owner of the trailer, which he was pulling behind his car.

Mr. Burke, whose home is Newport News, Va., accompanied by his family was driving east on Highway 50. He was stopped by a motorist who had been following him and told of the fire. He was able to get two spare tires off the trailer, but unable to rescue any of the contents.

They were enroute to Eldon, Mo., before continuing to their home in Virginia.

Gives Talk on Growth of the United States

Reports Given to Lions Club on Children's Fund

"Growth of the United States" was the subject of Rev. Cecil T. Swackheimer, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Marshall, who spoke at the noonday meeting of the Sedalia Lions Club today. Rev. Swackheimer told of the expansion of this great country since the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.

He spoke on the United States culture and that the white race is being threatened by the expansion of socialism in India, China and Russia. Through his talk he told of the continuous education of socialism which is being made in those countries, which in time are bound to unite.

"Only the handling and wise use of our own methods can protect the white man in the next 100 years. The next 100 years of growth of the United States will be the greatest in its history, and if I had my choice of life, it would be during this period," Rev. Swackheimer concluded his talk.

Reports of the various Lions' committees in the Children's Benefit Fund, being solicited by the club for the Christmas Stocking Fund, was made. Plans of the committee at present are to hold one of the best Christmas parties for Sedalia's children that has been held in many years.

Visiting Lions at today's meeting were Joe Varner, of Boise, Idaho, and Chet Balmer, of Jefferson City.

William F. Brown, vice president, presided over the meeting.

Billings (Mo.) Bank Robbed Wednesday

BILLINGS, Mo., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Two armed bandits robbed the Billings bank of about $1,000 in cash near closing time today, and gained a 45-minute lead in their get-away by locking two bank officials and two customers in the vault.

The bandits took only the money from the counter tills, and in their haste overlooked several thousand dollars more in the open vault.

Acting on a description of a third man seen sitting near the bank in an automobile at the time of the robbery, all available highway patrolmen of the nearby Springfield headquarters troops were scouring the highways of the district tonight.

Patrolmen said several persons described the get-away cars as a "shiny, late model," and said the man sitting in it was about 50 years old, dressed in a brown hat, black jacket, gray work shirt and corduroy trousers.

Those locked in the vault were A. J. Howard, president; Clay Hodges, Jr., assistant cashier; Mrs. F. R. Yorkum and Henry Brown, customers.

The robbery was discovered by another customer who entered the bank after the bandits had fled. The customer notified Andrew Howard, a lawyer and son of the bank president, who unlocked the vault and released the captives.

Wilson Wyatt Does Not Plan To Resign

Housing Expediter Lays His Troubles Before President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt, getting nowhere in an administrative family row over his ideas, laid his troubles before President Truman today and said later he has no plan to resign.

Wyatt said the President has under consideration his report asking "reaffirmation" of his emergency powers. Some government agencies have failed to comply with some of his directives. Speaking to reporters, he said there will be further conferences.

Reported Ready To Quit
The housing chief, who was reported by associates ready to quit after Mr. Truman fails to reassert his authority, did not reply when he was asked what he would do if his program were sidetracked.

"Do you plan to resign?" a reporter asked.

"No sir," Wyatt replied.

Later, in talking with a reporter, a National Housing agency official said Wyatt had believed he was replying "No Sir" to a question whether he actually had resigned. Wyatt understood he had made no answer to a question about his future intentions, the official added.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., telegraphed Mr. Truman today, urging he give Wyatt "the green light" for his program. Roosevelt is national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee, which announced his action.

The CIO announced that President Philip Murray and Chairman R. J. Thomas of the CIO housing committee in a telegram had asked Mr. Truman's backing of the Wyatt program.

The former President's son was represented in an AVC statement as believing that Mr. Truman's decision would be a "crucial indication of whether or not he intends to scrap the major elements of the new deal program." The AVC statement said this attitude was reported by young Roosevelt's friends.

Has Demonstrated Program
"In obtaining over 800,000 starts in veterans' housing Wilson Wyatt has demonstrated that his program is the best hope for homeless veterans," Roosevelt told Mr. Truman.

Wyatt's differences with other agencies over methods up this way.

1. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has balked at full compliance with Wyatt's proposals for loans to manufacturers of prefabricated housing.

2. The War Assets Administration questioned Wyatt's right to require it to turn over a $171,000 surplus was plant at Chicago to a firm for making housing units. WWA said it already was leased an automobile maker.

3. Wyatt has opposed a proposal from within the Civilian production Administration that the steel priorities system be set aside during the coal strike.

Wyatt was pictured by one housing official as believing the issues boiled down to whether housing is to be treated as a true emergency program.

The expediter's report to the President covered the housing outlook. It also proposed that all controls be retained over production and distribution of building materials except as Wyatt may consider unnecessary. He also urged action for building more rental housing.

Judge Goldsborough Adjourns Lewis Case Until Friday Morning

Deadlock Over Trieste Is Smashed

Foreign Ministers Council Progresses Drafting Peace Pacts

By Alex H. Singleton

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—In a sweeping series of compromises, the Foreign Ministers Council smashed tonight its deadlock over Trieste and made its greatest progress to date in drafting peace pacts for the Axis satellites.

Agree On All Questions

Persons present at the Council deliberation said the ministers reached agreement on all questions relating to Trieste and then moved on to settle some of the problems of Italy.

The action came as a fruit of a private huddle between Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Monday when both made concessions.

It was followed yesterday by a secret session of the four diplomatic chiefs at which tentative solutions of the time-consuming dispute were reached. Those agreements were solidified tonight.

Dealing With Trieste

In dealing with Trieste, major Adriatic port which has been claimed by both Yugoslavia and Italy and which will be internationalized under the Italian peace pact, the ministers agreed:

1. To order the governor of Trieste to announce 90 days after assuming office whether foreign occupation troops should remain there or whether they could be safely withdrawn. If the governor decided retention was essential to security, they would remain until the danger of a disturbance had passed. Molotov had sought a fixed deadline.

2. To reduce the number of occupation troops in the international zone to 5,000 each for the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia. The reduction would take place when the governor assumed office. The limitation was proposed by Byrnes.

3. To place the troops at the disposal of the governor, making him, in effect, their commander-in-chief.

4. To make certain that all troops will be withdrawn simultaneously when the governor finds that step is possible.

5. To give the governor authority to appoint the provisional council of government from among local inhabitants of Trieste after consultation with Italy and Yugoslavia.

6. To provide for retention of power by the Allied military government if there is any time lag between completion of the peace treaty and assumption of office by the governor.

7. To make provisions of the permanent statute for Trieste apply during the regime of the provisional government—until elections are held.

8. To fix the time for elections at a date within four months after the governor takes office.

9. To offer the Council's assurance that it would make every effort to agree upon a governor before the peace pact becomes final.

Molotov Withdraws Objections

Meanwhile, Molotov withdrew major objections to an economic clause guaranteeing economic non-discrimination in the Italian treaty.

To this section, the Council added a provision sponsored by the United States and the Netherlands incorporating two of aviation's five freedoms—the right to fly over Italian soil and the right to land for non-commercial purposes.

The progress made tonight left one outstanding issue confronting the Council, the question of free navigation of the economically strategic Danube.

Molotov offered a new proposal today, calling for settlement of this issue by a 10-nation conference after conclusion of peace treaties with Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary.

The proposal would limit participation in the Danube conference to the four big powers and states on the river's banks—the Soviet Union, Romania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Hungary. Austria would be allowed to participate in future Danube conferences after an Austria peace treaty had been concluded.

This issue was left over for tomorrow, as were the still pending disputes on reparations from Italy and Bulgaria.

The Council will meet at 4 p. m. on Thanksgiving day.

Earlier the Foreign Ministers, suddenly shifting strategy, abandoned temporarily their briefly established policy of secrecy, called in technical aides and went ahead with full-fledged debate on Trieste and the Italian pact.

Decide Friday On Norris-Laguardia Act Curbing Injunctions In Dispute

By J. W. Davis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—The first day of John L. Lewis' historic contempt of Court trial ended today with Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough rebuking Lewis for not flagging down the nation-wide soft coal strike pending a decision on the merits of the controversy.

With Lewis' lawyers contending that Goldsborough's anti-strike restraining order was an illegal decree calling for "involuntary servitude," Goldsborough said:

"The court thinks there is no basis for misunderstanding. To delay action for ten days would not have injured the union. But the union saw fit not to allow the maintenance of the status quo."

The judge then adjourned court until Friday. At that time, he announced, he will make his decision on Lewis' motion to dismiss the contempt citation, issued after Lewis ignored a restraining order designed to head off the great strike.

Goldsborough also announced that he will decide Friday, or later, whether the Norris-Laguardia act curbing the use of injunctions in labor disputes has any bearing on the case. Lewis' attorneys argued that the restraining order was invalid under the act.

A brief verbal byplay, Goldsborough made a remark which some of the attorneys at first interpreted as meaning that Lewis was sure to escape a jail sentence even if adjudged contemptuous.

But examination of the official transcript which became available later showed that there was a big "if" in the remarks.

The judge, who had taken the position that even if the Norris-Laguardia act applies to the case, Lewis should have obeyed the restraining order, said:

"I suspect that the Norris-Laguardia act applies, x x x it might be a contempt, but I would not imagine the punishment would very seriously interfere with anybody's comfort."

This, many lawyers agreed, meant that a jail sentence was out if the judge should decide that the anti-injunction act is applicable. But if he should side with government lawyers and determine that it has nothing to do with the case, the possibility of jail as well as fines remained.

The judge warned Lewis that he is in contempt of the law legally proven that he made "the very great mistakes" of disobeying the court's directive.

AFL General Counsel Joseph P. Wayland declared it is "fundamental that men have the right to work or not, as they see fit."

"The court agrees with you on that," Goldsborough interjected. "So does the government," Assistant Attorney General John S. Sweeney chimed in.

Wayland said the United Mine Workers were willing, if necessary to leave the question to the people of the United States, through legislation, whether they wished to abridge the right to strike.

Goldsborough retorted that, in his opinion, almost the whole of Wayland's argument was "beside the point."

Lewis showed signs of restiveness as the long arguments went on. At the end, he spoke no word to his counsel nor to reporters as he gathered up coat, cane and big black hat and stalked from the court room.

The trial, with its vast import, opened at a tiny courtroom which was electric with tension. At one point bailiffs led a chunky, gray-haired man before the judge and said prospective jurors had complained he was trying to talk with them.

But the man, who identified himself as Samuel Lincoln Kaufman, New York attorney, protested hotly that he was merely in quest of

Two Damage Suits Are Filed

A $20,000.00 damage suit in two counts was filed in Pettis county circuit court by Troy K. Craig, Ionia, Missouri, against the Sedalia Democrat Company Friday.

The first count states that the Sedalia Democrat is a newspaper of large circulation and that on November 4, 1946 there was printed and published in that newspaper the following false, defamatory and libelous statement: "Craig was arrested by Sergeant Fred Rodecker of the State Highway Patrol on a charge of careless and reckless driving." For this Craig asks damages of $10,000.00.

On the second count the plaintiff says that the defendant is publisher of another newspaper of large circulation, known as the Sedalia Capital which on November 5 published the same statement mentioned above. For this Craig says he was damaged in the sum of another $10,000.00, and therefore prays judgment against the defendant in the sum of $20,000.00.

Another suit for damages was filed in circuit court Friday by Craig against Elmer E. Sterling, 721 West Sixteenth Street, Sedalia. The suit states that on or about November 3, 1946, Craig was driving in a southerly direction on Missouri state highway No. 65 in his Chevrolet coach and was injured to the extent of $5,000.00 when a Chevrolet sedan, going north, driven by Sterling, crashed into his car. This accident occurred near Windsor Junction, which is on the north boundary of Benton county and the south boundary of Pettis county.

C. P. Junge, Cole Camp, is attorney, for Craig in both suits.

Judge Goldsborough Adjourns Lewis Case Until Friday Morning

proceed that the United Mine Workers' chief claim was immune from anti-strike orders.

But Goldsborough, in obvious disagreement, declared that society was trying to protect itself "from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration."

Moreover, Goldsborough slapped a longer restraining order on Lewis.

On Nov. 18, Goldsborough had issued an order which vainly called upon Lewis to cancel his notice that his contract with the government was void. This notice signalled the soft coal walkout, since the miners do not work without a contract.

The restraining order originally was dated to expire at 2 p. m. EST today. Meanwhile, arguments were to be heard on the question of issuing a more permanent injunction, but the contempt proceedings sidetracked these.

Just 20 minutes before 3 p. m. today, Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett jumped up and asked that the restraining be extended for 10 days. Judge Goldsborough promptly granted the request.

Led by Joseph A. Padway, gray-haired general counsel for the American Federation of Labor, Lewis' battery of counsel contended that the case should be dismissed under the Norris-La Guardia act which forbids injunctive processes in labor disputes.

But Goldsborough remarked that he didn't think it made any difference, so far as the contempt case is involved, whether this act applies to the soft coal case or not.

"If the defendants disregarded the restraining order, then they are guilty of contempt of court whether the Norris-La Guardia act applies or does not apply," the judge said. "That, in this court's opinion, is the law."

If everybody were free to disobey restraining orders, he said, "we would have anarchy."

Goldsborough at one point told Padway that "the court doesn't agree with you at all" as to Padway's version of immunity from contempt charges under the Norris-La Guardia act.

At another point, he told the AFL lawyer that "your attitude" of doing nothing about the original restraining order "was a very great mistake on your part."

Goldsborough said "this distressing situation" might have been avoided by obedience to the order, plus a get-together on whether Lewis was right in his contention that his agreement with the government did provide for reopening to make changes in wages, hours and working conditions.

Welly Hopkins, of UMW counsel, argued that this agreement carried over from a previous contract the exact arrangement which Lewis followed in signalling an end to the pact and a walkout of the miners. The government contends the agreement specifically says it is to remain in effect as long as the government holds possession of the mines.

Goldsborough objected to Padway's referring to the far-flung situation brought on by the coal strike as "a labor dispute."

"What you are saying, Mr. Padway, is that when society itself tries to protect itself from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration, it is involved in a labor dispute," he chided.

"I don't believe it is necessary for me to argue here that this is a labor dispute," retorted Padway. "Calling it a labor dispute does not make it one," rejoined the judge.

That exchange ended with Padway saying wonderingly if a case involving wages, hours and working conditions is not a labor dispute, "then I would like to know what does constitute one." (Lewis, in seeking a new contract, has not yet revealed his exact demands, but is reported to want shorter hours and higher pay rates.)

The court hearing was pure legalistic jousting for the most part, but there was one flurry of laughter.

This came when Padway told Goldsborough that if the judge holds Lewis guilty of contempt then he ought to hold his lawyers likewise because it was their advice Lewis was following.

Goldsborough told a story, the punch line of which was that "the cemetery is full of people who took the doctors' advice."

Padway said that if the injunction against Lewis sticks, the courts will be throwing the country back decades in labor-protecting legislation.

That is the reason, he said, "we are so apprehensive."

While Lewis was having his day in court, a Virginia process server, nailed on the front door of his Alexandria home a summons to appear on other UMW matters before a state body.

The process server earlier today tried to serve Lewis personally, but was told he was not at home and had not spent the night there.

The summons directs Lewis to appear before the state corporation commission to show why the UMW should not be enjoined from soliciting membership, as a violation of the state securities law.

Catholic Bishop Has Own Idea On Crusade

Prepares Letter To Be Read In His Ohio 13-County Diocese

STEBUNVILLE, O., Nov. 27.—(P)—A Catholic bishop today declared gambling and drinking, in themselves, are not sinful or evil and emphasized that he would "not tolerate any attempt by anyone to legislate false morals" for his parishioners.

In a pastoral letter that made no mention of anti-vice crusade here by 12 Protestant pastors, Bishop John John Muccio, spiritual leader of 150,000 Catholics in the 13-county Steubenville diocese, observed:

"Unfortunately there are many misguided, puritanical and narrow minded persons to whom a game of chance is a serious crime; to whom it is a violation of the whole moral code, x x x."

"These so-called leaders simply do not know the moral structure of Christianity. As a result, they make themselves pitiable objects in a community."

The letter, to be ready Sunday in all Catholic churches of the diocese, was prepared to instruct parishioners on the issues of gambling, drinking and prostitution.

The crusade begun by Protestant ministers is directed against organized vice and crime, including prostitution in this Ohio river city. The minister asked special police powers permitting them to smash such establishments with sledge hammers.

The bishop's letter asserted "gambling, considered in itself, is not wrong or sinful," and that "apart from abuse, to play games of skill or even of pure chance for a stake is not immoral."

"We do not believe that when this game of chance works an injustice to individuals, families, groups or the common good, it is morally wrong."

"Drinking in itself is not evil. It becomes wrong when used immoderately with its long stream of evil consequences."

"Adultery and fornication are intrinsically evil. They can never be tolerated, nor can places which are the occasion for such sin be allowed to exist."

The letter was made public after a council without discussion, gave a second reading to legislation which would permit the appointment of special policemen to conduct a campaign against vice and crime. The measure will be given a third and final reading Dec. 10. If approved at that time, it will become effective after 30 days.

A Bank Robber Gets Cold Feet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 27.—(P)—A would-be bank robber, armed with what he said was a bottle of nitro-glycerine, fled from the Tradesmen's National Bank here today after an unsuccessful attempt to force a woman teller to give him $5,000.

Miss Selma Payne, the teller, said the man handed a note through her window stating that the bank was being robbed and that unless she handed over $5,000 in large denomination bills he would blow up the building with a bottle of nitro-glycerine he was carrying in his pocket.

Miss Payne, a veteran employee of the bank, stepped on an automatic burglar alarm signal to police and stalled the man off, hoping police would arrive in time to arrest him.

Angered at her tactics, the man drew a small bottle from his pocket containing a green liquid and waved it threateningly, Miss Payne said.

Another bank employee entered the cage and the man fled to the street where he was lost in the crowd. Police arrived with drawn guns a minute later.

Using similar tactics, a man robbed the Fidelity National Bank here last December of $13,505.

Clyde Speer, Eagle business manager and negotiator for the publisher, said management was unable to agree to guild proposals "governing wages and conditions of employment."

The guild asked pay minimums hanging from $28.50 to $61 per 40 hour week, and lower rates for other editorial workers. The best management offer, they added, stopped at a $60 minimum for a 40-hour week.

'Blue Baby' Is In Serious Condition

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27.—(P)—Sally Lou Medley, 8, of Kansas City, remained in critical condition at Johns Hopkins hospital tonight after surgeons there had to stop at the crucial point in their attempt to correct a malformation which has prevented her blood from receiving sufficient oxygen from the lungs.

Hopkins officials said she was removed to an oxygen tent critically ill and without the delicate surgery completed. They would not amplify a statement that the object of the famed tussis-black "blue baby" operation had not been accomplished.

Sally since birth has had a rare circulatory condition which impedes the blood from heart to lungs to receive oxygen. The operation developed at Hopkins almost two years ago reroutes the blood around the obstructions. Its climactic point is the connection of one artery to another at the heart.

Victims of the malformation usually develop a bluish pallor. Until development of the surgical techniques at Hopkins, the condition was considered incurable.

Two in Prison Truck Arrested

Guard and Convict Driver in Accident In Kansas

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 27.—(P)—A few drinks and a wrong turn sent a Missouri penitentiary guard and his convict driver into Kansas and trouble, Missouri Penal Director Thomas E. H. Whitecotton reported today.

He said they wrecked a prison truck and were arrested. The guard paid a $15 fine for drunkenness at Olathe, Kas. When he returned to the prison this morning he was discharged.

Whitecotton and County Attorney Clayton Brenner of Olathe identified the guard as Dolphus A. Harris of Waynesville, Mo., and the convict as Fred Smith, serving 35 years from Greene county for highway robbery.

A charge of driving while intoxicated was filed against the convict, who was held at Olathe pending his return to prison later today.

Had Steel For Prison

Whitecotton said the men set out Monday morning in a prison truck with a load of finished license plates for delivery in Kansas City. They delivered the plates, picked up 10,000 pounds of steel for the prison but failed to return by the midnight check-in hour.

"There was evidence they had had a drink or two," the prison official said, "and apparently when they got to highway 50 they turned west instead of east."

At the junction of highway 50 and state line road, the truck and an automobile driven by Mary Hess of Lexington, Mo., both headed for the same ditch in an effort to avoid a smash. The truck trailer overturned on the Ross car, injuring the woman and wrecking the car.

Several years ago, Whitecotton said, Smith was involved in a similar incident. He and another convict went to St. Louis with a guard. The guard got drunk but on that occasion the two prisoners brought the truck back to the penitentiary by themselves.
